NEW CASES OF FEVER ROLLING RAPIDLY IN.

"When will this Fitful Fever End?" Twenty-Six New Cases Reported---Among the Dead and Dying.

MEMPHIS, Aug. 21.—Two new cases reported to Board of Health this morning; Mrs. F. Milbrandon and N. E. Speers. Four deaths occurred, J. H. Haven, Frank Lindsey, Camille Geninui and Richard Majors, colored. At a meeting of citizens residing in the Southern portion of the city, held last night, strong resolutions were adopted protesting against enforcement of the law recently passed by the State Board of Health at Nashville, prohibiting citizens to venture beyond their premises between the hours of six p. m. and 4 a. m.

A telegram from Rogersville, East Tennessee announces the death yesterday of Captain Sam. R. Gammon a prominent criminal lawyer, of this city, who was recently assistant Attorney General of the Criminal Court.

At noon to-day the guards which had been stationed in the streets between here and Chelsea for the purpose of isolating that suburb so that it should not become infected with yellow fever were withdrawn by the city authorities. The citizens of Chelsea threw so many obstacles in the way of the attempted quarantine restriction, and objected so strenuously to its further continuance that the authorities were forced to abandon their efforts.

LATER.

MEMPHIS, August 21.—Twenty-six cases in all were reported to-day, seven white, 19 colored. Two additional deaths have occurred, Amanda Yates, colored and Ellen Roach. The last named resided beyond the city limits. The meeting of the executive committee of the Committee of Safety this morning, Rev. Dr. Briggs, John Johnson, General W. J. Smith, D. F. Goodyear, A. W. Thatcher were appointed a committee to estimate expenses necessary for the maintenance of the people now in camp, until it is safe for them to return to the city. The expenses of the Safety Committee to date are $9,645. All money deposited with the National Park Bank of New York for credit of Memphis will be paid in Memphis, free of charge. The Odd Fellows have appealed to absent members for funds to enable them to nurse the sick members of their order. This is done to avoid the necessity of the Grand Master's calling assistance from the order at large. "Shoulder to shoulder." The club of St. Andrew's society of Memphis calls on their sister societies for assistance. All communications should be addressed to R. W. Lamb. The thermometer has ranged from 67 to 91.

WASHINGTON, August 20.—The National Board of Health to-day instructed its executive committee not to issue rations to individuals or communities threatened with or infected by yellow fever, except in cases where persons are detained under its supervision in order to prevent the spread of the disease, and even then for only a short period of detention, and for the purpose of preventing individual suffering otherwise unavoidable. In other words, the Board will not furnish rations at all to those who remain in Memphis or other infected cities, and will furnish them to persons in camp, under its supervision, only for a limited time and under exceptional circumstances.

More Trouble Ahead.

LONDON, August 21.—A dispatch from Vienna to the Daily Telegraph says: The Russian and English commissioners have seriously differed relative to the delimitation of the Russo-Turkish frontier in Asia each disputing the accuracy of the other's map. Lord Dufferin, the British Ambassador at St. Petersburg, has suspended for themoment negotiations which were proceeding at St. Petersburg on this subject.

A Berlin dispatch to the Daily News says some persons put the number of cruisers, for construction of which, in America, Russia is negotiating as high as twenty-two but five or less seems more probable a number.

A correspondent of the Times writes that John Baldwin Buckston, a famous comedian and dramatic author for many years lessee and manager of the Haymarket Theater suffered a second paralytic seizure a few days ago and is now probably on his death bed and that he is in destitute circumstances.

An Earthquake on the Warpath.

ST. CATHERINES, August 20.—A sharp shock of an earthquake was felt here at 2:58 this morning.

NIAGARA, N. Y., August 20.—There was a severe shock of earthquake here at 3 o'clock this morning.

Country Papers and Cash Rates.

Baltimore Sun.

A New York advertising agency, in a recent sanguine advertisement, attempts to tell the people "how to get famous." They are to get rich first, and, in order to do that, they are to push their business and make money fast while young and able. The advice is judicious. Something besides riches is perhaps necessary to the best sort of fame, but still few men undertake business unless to make money by it. "If you have no business," adds the agent, "start one. To gain customers, let the people know what you have to sell by careful advertising." Very well again. There is no better way to push one's business and make money fast than by "careful advertising." But, as a rule, the man who pushes his business through the common run of advertising agencies does not advertise "carefully" or judiciously. The reason of this is that these agencies demand terms which newspapers such as really reach the people, and are actual vehicles of communication between those who have things to sell and those having money to buy with, are neither able nor willing to pay. "Careful" advertisers will eschew country papers such as supply their readers with "patent outsides," or sell to advertising agents at heavy discounts their advertising columns by the square yard. No "careful" advertiser will pay to the go-between what he can get cheaper and in a much more advantageous shape from the fountainhead itself. The advertising agent and go-between, in fact, makes a tender which he cannot comply with. He offers advertisers a delusive value only. The space which he promises in good advertising mediums cannot be delivered by him, because those good mediums will not sell it to him.

LATE NEWS NOTES.

The body of Secrist, the murdered mail contractor in Indian Territory, has been found, It had a bullet hole in the head, and was nearly eaten by wolves. Fifty desperadoes were reported in the woods in the vicinity.

At a meeting of the leading citizens of Quebec, Canada, a committee, consisting of members from both the Irish and French societies and their priests and others, was appointed to try and arrive at some arrangements for the peaceful settlement of the labor troubles between the two races. The authorities are meditating heroic measures for preventing a recurrence of rioting.

James N. Stevens, who murdered his wife near Fincastle, Va., August 11th, fled to the woods, where he remained concealed for a week, returned home, and seating himself on a block of wood in the yard shot himself through the head with the pistol he used upon his wife. The cause of the tragedy is said to have been jealousy.

MOSELEY'S DEATH IN THE ALPS.

Falling with such Rapidity that the Clothing Stripped from his Body.

LONDON, August 19.—Regarding the accident to William O. Mosely, Jr., a young physician of Boston, Mass., whose death while descending the Matterhorn was announced by telegraph from Zermatt, Switzerland, on the 15th instant. The Geneva correspondent of the Times writes as follows: "Dr. Mosely had safely accomplished the ascent of the Matterhorn. On returning, and when near the cabin which is used as a resting place, he loosened himself from the rope uniting him to his companions. He had hardly done so when he made a false step, lost his footing, and glided rapidly down the steep ice-slope, making frantic efforts to stop himself by grasping at projecting rocks. The next moment he disappeared over the precipice, falling on the glacier opposite Riffel, between Hoernli and the Saint Theodule Pass, where the body lies, completely stripped of clothing by the rapidity of its descent. The body can be distinctly seen from below, lying on a projecting ledge of ice. An expedition for the recovery of the body was to start on Saturday morning.

AN INTERVIEW WITH TILDEN.

He Wants the Wrong of 1876-77 to be the Controlling Issue of 1880.

Cincinnati Enquirer, 20th.

Mr. Tilden affirms the statement of his hearty accord with the Democracy of the West in the election of Ewing, and adds:

"The differences in the Democratic party in the United States are transitory and evanescent, and will disappear in the presence of inevitable events. The principles upon which the great mass of the Democratic party are agreed are fundamental and eternal. In the contest of 1866 the issue was the restoration of the Government in its practical working and administration to the original ideas of its founders.

The defeat of the popular will as declared in that election, has raised a vastly greater issue—that is, the integrity of the system of self-government through elections by the people. This issue transcends all others, and it would be a betrayal of the most sacred duty to mankind to permit it to be sacrificed to inferior and transient questions."

A Monstrosity.

Syracuse (N. Y.) Standardth, 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Fekdnstalher, who live some six miles from Fulton, arrived in this city last Friday and stopped at the Amos Hotel. They are accompanied by their little girl, thirteen years old, who has a singular head. The child was perfect when born and grew naturally until she was three months old, but since that time only the head has increased in size. The face at the chin was quite as broad as that of the adult, but with a true and rapid taper it steadily extended toward the forehead, when it assumed its colossal proportions, measuring thirty inches around the head at the middle of the forehead. The mouth is small and lies partly open, from which she drools continually, an indication of her imbecility. The eyes are small, are rolled over backward so that the eye-balls are red and blood-shot, and anything but pleasant to look at. The forehead from the hair to the bridge of the nose will measure from three and a half to four inches in width. It is said that the poor child is to be placed on exhibition.

The Cotton Worm on Hand.

Mills Valley (Ala.) Post.

The dreaded cotton worm has made its appearance in some parts of the State. In Montgomery county they are sufficiently numerous to create alarm among the farmers, and efforts are being made, by the use of paris green, to exterminate them before much damage is done to the cotton.

Colored Excursion.

Danville (Va.) News, 19th.

An excursion train, consisting of eight cars, from Raleigh, N. C., arrived in Danville Sunday morning, bringing nearly eight hundred souls. The party was composed of colored people of all colors, sizes, ages and sexes. The cars were so much crowded that a great many actually fainted, and the like of darkeys on one train has never before been seen at this place. There were old and young, big and little, black and bright, and men and women. They all behaved very well while here and left about 11 o'clock Sunday night for their homes, apparently well pleased with Danville.

Japanese fans will be decorated this year with highly improbable flocks of red hens refusing to be "shooed" by a ridiculous blue woman.

DESOLATED BEAUFORT.

INCIDENTS THAT OCCURRED DURING THE GREAT STORM.

Details of Interviews with those Present at the Time---Recovery of the Dead---Stockings vs. Jewelry.

Yesterday morning witnessed the arrival of several of our citizens from dilapidated Beaufort, who, having been caught there in the storm thought they would take some notes of the results and after scenes.

Mr. George T. Stronach furnished the NEWS with a number of anecdotes that occurred at the time. He states that although he knew there was a heavy storm raging by the howling of the wind, the slamming of the doors, and all the other things attendant that go to disturb a person's sleep, still he thought there was no particular danger until his wife called his attention to the rocking of the building, and then he thought he would get up and see what was the matter. Partially dressing himself he went out into the hall only to find the house nearly deserted. Returning he told his wife to get up, which she did, putting on her shoes and a wrapper. Things were shoved into the trunks, which were locked, and they betook themselves to other quarters. Palmer Davis, a colored man, helped them along taking the two children in his arms, Master George being the last to leave the building.

One of the comical incidents attending their flight was that while putting the things in the trunks little Annie discovered a box containing, as she thought, some fancy stockings. Now, not to be in the fashion at a fashionable watering place was a thing not to be thought of, and therefore her fancy stockings were safely cared for. Picture the surprise and delight when the trunk came to land to find that the fancy hosiery box was Mrs. Stronach's jewel box. So much for a little girl's innocent vanity.

Mr. Stronach, among other property lost his boat. Formerly she was the "Josie Moore;" but he had her newly painted and she looked so very handsome that he concluded to rechristen her and call her the "Stronach." The boat went up. Comment is unnecessary. He also lost his celebrated chair, and presumes that it is "in the deep bosom of the ocean buried." Anyhow, he left Colonel J. McLeod Turner fishing for it.

He says that the Colonel had a narrow escape. Crippled as he was, he could have never got out unaided. Four men, two white and two colored, whose names have been forgotten, put him in a chair and carried him of safe. Good for the men and better for the Colonel.

Among the narrow escapes was that of Miss Orta Gales, daughter of the late Seaton Gales. While endeavoring to escape along the plank walk before the hand line was stretched, she was swept off, but some unknown person plunged in after her and brought her safe to land. Another instance was that of Mrs. Slaton. Colonel Atkinson, of Wilmington, took the lady in charge, and as they hurried along the walk the planking kept ripping up behind them. They were the last on the walk.

A Mr. Porter was there and had a shark line. William H. Congleton, one of the drowned persons, took an end and passed it along the walk leading to the bar-room, and made it fast. If this had not been done as promptly as it was there is not the slightest doubt but that many lives would have been lost, as it was this line that prevented people from being swept away.

Joe, the bar-keeper, staid by his establishment, until he was forced to leave. He jammed the door too to keep the water out, and succeeded in accomplishing as much as Mrs. Partington did when she tried to sweep back the Atlantic with a broom. He received a severe cut in the back of the head. Alfred Manson was also severely cut.

There was one noticeable feature of the escape, and that is the women and children showed no sign of fear. And it is also safe to say that none of the escaping ones had a hat on.

In relation to the drowned men it is stated that they were not missed till late. A number of persons were positive that they saw Mr. Hughes standing near the bar-room, and it was therefore supposed that he had succeeded in making his escape. Mr. Congleton had been busily engaged in rendering most serviceable aid to those seeking safe quarters, and being a boatman, and deemed well able to care for himself the natural presumption was that he had gone home to rest after his exertions; and was not missed for several hours, when inquiries were made by his only relative regarding his whereabout. The theory has been broached that the two men came together and thinking there was somebody still that needed assistance they made the attempt and were carried away with the barroom.

A thorough search was made for their bodies, and it was thought they must have come ashore and have been buried underneath the wreckage. On Tuesday a stench arising from a huge pile of debris it was resolved to see if the bodies were deposited there; but on Wednesday morning, about 5:30 o'clock, as Mr. Stronach was standing on the dock, a man named Morse brought his boat alongside and stated that his son had found a body on Bird Shoal, and he thought it possibly might be that of Mr. Hughes. Mr. Stronach went with him to Colonel Hughes and they started for the spot. On the way they met a canoe with the body covered with a sheet. The canoe was taken in tow and they landed near the Ocean View Hotel, whither the corpse was conveyed. General Basil C. Manly took charge of the remains and had them conveyed upstairs and covered with sheets and made free use of disinfectants. On examination it was found that the left side of the face was torn off, showing the teeth, and his side stove in in two places. The corpse was coffined, and the sorrowing father sent to New Berne for a train and took the remains home.

Some two hours afterward news was received that Congleton's body had been found, and this proved correct. He was found about a fourth of mile from the place where Hughes' body was discovered. It was badly mutilated, and he was buried at Beaufort. Congleton had but one known relative, an uncle. If any man ever deserved a monument for heroic service rendered in a general peril, William Henry Congleton is the man.

When Governor Jarvis left Beaufort Tuesday he gave orders to clear away the rubbish in order to recover the missing bodies, it being supposed at the time they were buried under it, and he would recommend an appropriation to renumerate the workers.

A report was current in Raleigh Wednesday that Mr. Hubbard, the well-known lawyer of New Bern, was missing, but it turned out to be false, and his portly form will be seen at his home, where he proposes to stay, as ocean has lost its charms—to him at least.

[A press of late copy precludes the publication of many more incidents. The NEWS is in possession of many facts of general interest throughout the State, and the kindly deeds of Beaufort's citizens are not forgotten. Their names will be given to-morrow. In the meanwhile Beaufort needs aid for her great losses and the sacrifices of her splendid people. Let the FRIENDLY HAND be stretched out.]

PITT.

The weather is very stormy. Two wet for the crops and the wind yesterday did much damage. Trade is brisker. Promise of better crops enlivens trade.

Misses Mangie and Nina Cherry, Martha E. Tipson and Elvina C. Moore left this morning for Greensboro Female College and Miss Mary Bruce Moore for Peace Institute. All of them from the Greenville Male and Female Academy under the presidency of S. D. Bagley, A. M.

A calico ball came off at Dr. James' Hotel on the 13th.

If the rains are not too heavy hereafter the cotton crop will be very good. There is much labor employed now in breaking up old ground for the new wheat crop. The negroes have been much excited here recently by a man from somewhere they did not know or care, who sent them word he would be here on the 16th to take them to Kansas, that the government was going to give them each "forty acres of land and a mule." Some few intended to go, but the fellow failed to appear, and now the sensible negroes are laughing and the fooled ones look and feel "sheepish," I have no doubt. They are not going to get from Pitt any negroes except those we'd be glad to assist in leaving.

RESCUED BY A TROUT.

A Thumping Fish Story from the Far West.

Helena (Mont.) Herald.

Estimated by their game qualities and the difficulty sometimes experienced in safely landing them, the larger specimens of our mountain trout weigh like a sturgeon. This fact is established whenever the trout hooked in a pool with sufficient depth and spread of water can bring to bear in his native element the full resisting force of his remarkably strong and active tail. Illustrative of this, a story is told of the experience of two professional fishers who recently went out from Helena to the Big Blackfoot, one a doctor and the other a lawyer. In a very brief time they had a basket of beauties for their pains, but the fascination of the sport kept them tossing their flies into the clear waters of the magnificent stream. Finally one man hooked a "bouncer," one on which he had most yearned to try his skill. The pool was deep and broad, and, work and finesse as the doctor might, the trout held to the water. The lawyer, resting his companion, tried his strength and tact but with no better luck. The trout seemed quite master of the situation, nor could be be towed or tuckered out. The contest finally culminated in the most exciting scene. Determined to secure the prize, and forgetting that he could not swim, the valiant doctor, throwing aside coat and boots, jumped into the depths of the stream. It was a rash act, and to save him the lawyer was forced to plunge in after him. A fair swimmer, he reached his struggling companion, and holding on to the pole and tackle with one hand, lifted with the other his companion's head above water. But the lawyer found he could not bring his burden to shore, and only by superhuman effort could he keep himself and companion from sinking. On the very point of drowning the trout came to the rescue, straightened out the line, and after a few sportive pranks, hauled the two men out of the pool to shallow water. Grateful for the service thus obligingly rendered, the fish was permitted to disappear over the riffle down stream. This story is confirmed by the testimony of both the gentlemen concerned and by the trout itself, which has since been seen towing the tackle up and down the waters of the Blackfoot.

Robbery at China Grove.

Charlotte Observer 21st.

A robbery, similar in all respects to that committed at Huntersville, in this county, last week, occurred at China Grove night before last. The victim was Mr. J. C. Wilhelm, a carriage maker of that village. Some time during the night, the bed room of his dwelling house was entered, his pants taken from the bed in which he and his wife were sleeping and the pockets robbed of between $90 and $100, in three twenty dollar bills, one of the denomination of ten dollars, and the remainder in smaller change. His keys, which were also in the pockets of the pants, were taken out, and the bureau drawers unlocked and rifled. The kitchen, which is a short distance from the house, was also entered and robbed of table-ware, knives and forks, etc. When the family awoke yesterday morning, they found the door standing wide open. The thieves must have entered through this. Mr. Wilhelm is not sure that he locked the door before retiring, but thinks he did as he is in the habit of doing it every night. The family and neighbors incline to believe that the robbery was committed by some one in the village. Mr. Wilhelm had just received pay for two buggies, and had that day paid off the hands in his employ. Only a few persons could have known that he had the money about him, and certainly a stranger could never have found it out. As yet there is no clue, but the matter has been placed in the hands of officers.

An Elephant Killed.

The trained elephant Romeo was killed by an electrical machine at Booneville, Mo., last week. One of the appurtenances of the traveling show was a machine used in connection with the electric light that illuminated the exhibition tent. It consisted of a large magnet and an armature, which were made to revolve 250 times a minute by means of a thirty-five-horse power engine. Romeo, being anxious to find out what made the wheels go round, sniffed at the armature when it was in motion. His trunk was caught in the revolving apparatus and he was thrown violently to the ground and fatally injured. Romeo was valued at $35,000.

THE NEW ANNIHILATOR

PROFESSOR JAMES K. P. BURLIN GAME APPEARS.

"Fling away your Screens and Depend entirely on my Fly Annihilator, Warranted to Kill."

Detroit Free Press.

Bright and early yesterday morning, before one-tenth of the citizens of Detroit had shaken off the effects of the glorious Fourth, Professor James K. P. Burlingame made his appearance on several streets in Detroit almost at the same moment. You would have known him to be a professor even if you had seen him tangled up with a butcher-cart. That tall plug hat, carrying the stains of years—that linen duster, girted at the waist—his long hair hanging down to keep his shoulders warm—was a dead give-away to his title.

The professor came here to dispose of individual rights to use his "Fly Annihilator," and he didn't let thoughts of the next Presidential election set him down on a bench. His piccolo voice inquired of a woman at the front door of a house on Congress street:

"Madam, have you ten seconds to spare this morning?"

"No, sir," was the prompt reply.

"Very well, then, you will miss seeing my Fly Annihilator," he remarked, as he walked off. "Thousands have missed it to their everlasting sorrow—thousands have accepted it and been made happy for life."

"Its some kind o' pizen!" she called after him down the street.

"Warranted free from all drugs or chomicals dangerous to the human system, and recommended to people troubled with sleeplessness," he called back, as he briskly retraced his steps

"I've got screens in every window and get the flies get in," she continued, as she opened his satchel on the steps.

"Of course they do—of course. A fly is like a human being. Bar him out and he is seized with a desire to get in at any price. Tell him that he can't and he will or break his neck. Fling away your screens and depend entirely on my Fly Annihilator, warranted to kill on sight, and can be worked by a child four years old. This is the application."

He took from his satchel an eight-ounce bottle filled with a dark liquid and provided with a small brush, and holding it up continued:

"One 25-cent bottle does for twenty doors, and I give you directions how to make all you want. No poison here—nothing in this bottle to trot children up to the cemetery."

"Why, you don't put it on the flies, do you?" she said.

"Not altogether, madam. Any child can use it, as I said before. Just watch me a moment."

He swung the front door open, and with a brush applied the mixture to the back edge, giving it a thin coat from top to bottom.

"Now, then," he said, as he swung the front door back, "flies like sweet. This mixture is sweet. The fly alights on the door, and you swing it shut, and he is jammed up against the casing and crushed in an instant. Every door is capable of killing 1,000 flies per day. If you have twelve doors your aggregate of dead flies will be exactly 12,000. When you have crushed about 2,000 on a door, take an old case knife and scrape them off, and begin over again."

"Do you suppose——" began the indignant woman but he interrupted her with;

"Don't suppose anything about it, except that it will mash flies and never miss. All you have to do is to open every door, apply the mixture, and shut then, in succession. If you have twelve doors and twelve children you can leave it all to the children. And only twenty five cents a bottle."

"Do you suppose I want my doors daubed with flies and molasses?" she shouted, as she made a cuff at the bottle.

"Just as you prefer, madam," he quietly replied; "some don't and some do. Some won't have it any price, and others even set up extra doors of the back yard in order to use lots of it. I'll warrant this liquid to draw them if you'll open and shut the doors."

"I won't buy it—I won't have it!" as she jammed the broom against the door.

"Very well, madam—very well. If you prefer a fly on your nose to one on the door I can raise no objection. Remember, however, that this is my farewell tour previous to appearing before the crowned heads of Europe, and you will not have another chance to secure the Annihilator. All you have to do is take your sewing on your lap and open and shut the door at regular intervals."

"If my husband was here, he'd—— he'd——"

"He'd buy the right for the county and make $20,000 in two months; but, as he is not here, we'll bid you good day and pass on. Sorry, madam, but some folks prefer to kill their flies with a pitch-fork, and the man with pitch-forks will call here in fifteen minutes."

A Humming Bird's Nest.

Elizabeth (N. J.) Journal.

Recently a humming bird's nest was found by some persons who had sufficient natural curiosity to overcome their compassion, and who captured the nest, two young hummers and the old one, took them home and had them stuffed. They are to be sent to a museum of natural curiosities in London. The nest is built on a little twig, and scarcely the size of half an English walnut. Both nest and twig are covered with little patches of lichen until it is almost impossible to tell one from the other, and the nest looks like a kind of natural excrescence on the twig. The nest is pliable, like a tiny cup of velvet, and the inside is lined with a white substance as rich and soft as silk. The little birds are about the size of humble bees, very pretty, and they sit on a little perch just outside the nest with open bills while the old bird hovers ever them to feed them.

The Huntersville Robbery.

Charlotte Observer, 20th.

Mr. J. N. Hunter whose store at Huntersville was recently robbed of about $125 in money and some clothing, writes that in addition to the money and other articles already mentioned, the thieves took about $8 worth of postage stamps. He thinks that the publication of this fact may afford some clue to the thieves, as they will no doubt soon try to dispose of them. Although the officers of the law and others have been very diligent in their efforts to ferret out the case, they have not as yet made any discoveries.

A Rare Curiosity.

Rochester (N. Y.) Morning Herald, 20th.

We received a call from Mr. Cody, familiarly known as "Buffalo Bill," last evening. He is on his way to New York to organize his troupe for the fall campaign. During the summer he has been engaged in shipping cattle to Chicago from his ranche at North Platte, Nebraska. Mr. Cody is also engaged in raising horses for the market, and has some of the finest stock in this country. His family remain in Nebraska. Mr. Cody has decided not to visit Europe this season. He brought with him a rare curiosity in the shape of a solid ivory cane made from a unicorn's horn, valued at $500, the only one of the kind in the world. It was the property of Mr. Tallow, of San Francisco, from whom Buffalo Bill purchased it. It is pure white, and excepting the handle and ferule, is in its natural state. Its weight is fifteen pounds. Mr. Cody left for New York last evening. He will start out on the war path with a number of red devils about the first of September.

BOSTON'S MURDERERS.

A Capture and Full Confession How the Victim was Killed.

BOSTON, August 19.—Nicollo Infantino, an Italian barber, aged sixteen, and Antonio Orditto, aged twenty, have been arrested for the murder of Joseph F. Frye. Nicollo Infantino often shaved the murdered man, and was sometimes taken to his house on Jay street, as Frye was familiar with him. Knowing that Frye was well off, Infantino planned with a Greek, named Antonio Orditto, to rob the house. Luigi Nello, a well-known character, known as Larry O'Neill, was also made a partner in the crime. The barber arranged to take his friend Orditto to Frye's house where they played billiards, the piano, etc. At a preconcerted time, Infantino, asked Mr. Frye to allow his friend to see the house, and Frye agreeing, they began at the cellar. Here the Greek assaulted Frye, stabbing him in the side with a pair of shears, and though Frye begged for his life, his murderer seemed to grow more ferocious, and finding his victim struggling desperately, ordered his companion Nicollo to fire his pistol, or he would kill him. The fatal shot was fired, and the two went at once about the work of plunder, taking what they could, and refreshing themselves with lunch after their dreadful work. They then went to the house at the west end, rejoining Luigi at the outer door, where he kept watch, and the plunder was divided. Credit for the arrest is due to Officers Wood and Howard. All the plunder was recovered.

LATER.

Four, instead of two Italians, were arrested last night: Nicollo Infantino, the boy who shot Frye through the heart; Antonio Orditto, who stabbed the victim tim; Vecino Bandiora, accessory before the fact, and Girseppe Donato, accessory after the fact. The police failed to secure Laro Chievvaro, alias Nino Antonio, alias Larry O'Neil, who is wanted as accessory before the fact. Nicollo and Antonio confessed that they visited visited Frye's house by invitation, induced him to go to the basement under pretense of showing the house, and there Antonia stabbed him in the back with shears, and Nicollo shot him, rifled his pockets and the safe, and left the house without being seen. Frye begged hard for his life, and made a brief and desperate struggle. The property all recovered was found concealed in shops occupied by these men, who are all barbers. Nicollo, the one who instigated the crime, was a protege of Frye's, and had received many favors at his hands. He was quite a regular visitor there, and hence had a knowledge of the house and Frye's habits. The shooting was done with an old revolver, and the stabbing with a barber's shears.

Death of Mr. Robert Brevard.

Charlotte Observer, 21st.

Mr. Robert Brevard, a highly respected and esteemed citizen of Lincoln county, died at the old family homestead near Iron Station, last Sunday afternoon, after an illness of several weeks, and was buried near his home on Monday. He has been more or less feeble for several years, and has been closely confined to his home. Mr. Brevard is the representative of a family distinguished in the annals of western North Carolina. Though never himself aspiring to public stations, he has been a most influential and useful citizen of the county, and has always had the confidence and esteem of all who knew him. He devoted himself to agricultural pursuits and by industry and energy accumulated a valuable property. He leaves two sons, Mr. Alexander Brevard, of Lincoln, and Mr. Ephraim Brevard, a resident of Texas, both of whom were with him at his death.

Good Words for the Watermelon.

Memphis Avalanche.

Some people entertain an idea that watermelons are unwholesome. Yet these same persons, perhaps, will stuff themselves in hot weather with hot biscuit, ham, beef, rancid butter and fried bacon, a diet suited to the latitude of Lapland. If the fruits of the earth and of the tree in this Southern climate were consumed more liberally there would be less sickness. If the Southern citizen would jump from the frying-pan into a watermelon patch he would be less liable to catch the yellow fever. Of all the fruits of the earth there is none more wholesome than a good watermelon. It is composed of nothing more than water. This water acts as a gentle diuretic, without leaving any acid upon the stomach, as is the case in other diuretics—a good thing in yellow fever times. The Creole of Louisiana lives to a marvelous age. He lives so long that he forgets his age. But he lives principally on the fruits and vegetables that grow around him, and he is especially fond of a good watermelon.

Portsmouth, Va., after the Storm.

Norfolk Virginian, 20th.

The effects of the late cyclone were still visible on every side yesterday. The trees on all the streets were badly mutilated, or torn up by the roots and blocking up the roads. The sidewalks were filled with the debris of signs, bricks, fences, limbs of trees, timber of every description, and slate and tin roofing. All along the wharves and shore could be found boards, planks, logs, and vessels, and boats of different sizes from a skiff to a large bark, or a steamboat.

Everywhere the air resounded with the noise of the carpenter's tools, or the mason's trowel. Men who were unaccustomed to the use of the saw and hammer, turned mechanics and were engaged repairing the injury to their property, for there was no time to wait for experienced help. The destruction of about one-half the trees in the beautiful park of the hospital grounds, and the washing away of a portion of the large stone abutment and the wharf are among the losses sustained by the government, and our people who enjoyed the beauty of their premises, will regret to hear of the damage to public property.

Who is the Administration?

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Secretary Sherman has been gradually gathering in the leading strings of the Government, and seem to have the machine pretty well organized in his presidential interest. It is a question now who is the real President of the United States, John or Mrs. Hayes. Rutherford passively looks on, an interested spectator.

NOT YET SATISFIED.

EX-GOVERNOR SPRAGUE SAYS HE IS SURPRISED.

A Disposition to Force Conkling to Settle Matters Satisfactorily---What he Declines.

New York Times, 20th.

It was not expected by the friends of ex-Governor Sprague that he would make a public reply to Mrs. Sprague's first statement, and the general feeling at the Pier, in Providence, and in Newport, was that Mrs. Sprague would not seek to address the public again, except under great provocation. One of Mrs. Sprague's friends, upon being asked whether that lady had not been directly insulted and grossly compromised many months ago, when several Washington correspondents alluded to the unconmon relations supposed to exist between her and Senator Conkling, pretended that Mrs. Sprague was not aware of those reports. Ex-Governor Sprague says that he is surprised at this, as his wife is an habitual reader of very many newspapers, and is interested in all newspaper gossip. He himself takes very few papers, never reads them carefully, and often passes a week without reading a paper. He has not looked at any of the public prints since the scandal, but he was prepared for Mrs. Sprague's additional statement, and cannot effectually object to her making as many more as she likes. He declines to contradict his wife's public utterances, and DEPRECATES HER ACTION.

As one of his most intimate and faithful friends puts it, he does two things, "he holds the fort and keeps quiet," but he is of the opinion that Mrs. Sprague's main endeavor is to to shield Senator Conkling, and, in Mr. Sprague's opinion, the Senator needs shielding indeed. The ex Governor is not impressed by Mrs. Sprague's statement that Senator Conkling came to Canonchet to influence or shape any policy in regard to the management of the bankrupt estate, with which the ex-governor has nothing whatever to do. Practically, the whole Sprague property is in the hands and under the con rol of the trustee, Mr. Zachariah Chafee. The trustee is not interested in Mrs. Sprague, or her worldly fortunes. Like all the hard-headed and cool-hearted business men of Providence, he

DEEMED HER EXTREMELY EXTRAVAGANT,

and, as one of the Sprague creditors says, neither the males nor the females of the Sprague concern were deeded to Mr. Chafee. The latter has no objection to the ex-governor occupying Canonchet, with, or without his wife, but he objects to Mrs. Sprague being in charge, or being there alone. Nor does he allow the ex-governor to sell anything belonging to the estate—not even a basket of fruit or a load of hay. Should the ex-governor undertake to do anything of the kind, both he and his family would be removed from Canonchet, and their relations with the Sprague estate would terminate until the day or final settlement, when they would receive the portion which might be due them. This statement, which is authoritative, disposes of Mrs. Sprague's story that Senator Conkling visited Canonchet to help to solve legal or executive questions connected with that or any property, formerly or now held by the Sprague family. Ex-governor Sprague coincides in this view. Practically he has nothing to do with the estate now, and it is not certain that he will in the future. He is living at Canonchet on sufferance. Senator Conkling's presence at Canonchet has not been accounted for, and he is known to have waited at Newport until it was certain the ex-governor was absent. Then he went to Canonchet. He was received at the landing by Mrs. Sprague, and how he installed himself at Canonchet is testified to by the German teacher, by the children, and by the servants. Ex-Governor Sprague has shown by his actions how he viewed this intrusion. The opponents of Senator Conkling do not charge him with criminality, but with ungentlemanly conduct, impudence and cowardice. Ex-Governor Sprague

DOES NOT CONSIDER THE AFFAIR ENDED.

He thinks himself outraged by the senator and demands satisfaction. It is freely stated among responsible people that Senator Conkling has compromised Mrs. Sprague's honor, not criminally, but socially, and that he ought to restore her good name and fame. A statement is therefore expected from Senator Conkling, and it is hoped that he will restore to Mrs. Sprague what he has taken away from her—her domestic peace and her good name as a wife who may have been wronged by her husband, but has remained faithful to her vows.

Collapse of the Lesseps Canal Scheme:

Baltimore Sun, 20th.

M. de Lesseps' scheme for a Panama canal a niveau has partically been abandoned—"suspended" is the convenient word used. This is not surprising under the circumstances, but still the business word's epitaph upon the impracticable project will probably be: "If so quickly you are done for, the wonder is what you were begun for." The French engineers who carried the vote in favor of the Wyse concession have been industriously employed in writing up the project for the Paris newspapers, and even so solid a journal as the Debats has given columns of its space to specious arguments in favor of the "only natural route" between the two oceans. In one of these articles the writer, M. Paul Boiteau, assured his readers that the Panama canal would diminish by eighty francs a ton the cost of transporting goods by sea; that General Burnside was the only man in the United States who thought the building of the canal an infringement of the Monroe doctrine, that the real opposition to the work in this country proceeded from the Panama and the trans-continental railroads. In spite of all this the Panama canal was a hopeless job from the outset. The speedy abandonment of the scheme shows that it has been found out, by those alone who could supply the means necessary to promote it, to be not a scientific plan for the construction of a public work of international proportions, but a project "put up" in the interest of speculators and stock-jobbers. The fact that the objections of Admiral Ammen and Mr. Menocal were brushed aside without any attempt to answer them was in itself fatal to any plan soliciting bona fide subscriptions from substantial capitalists. M. de Lesseps may still carry out his proposition to visit the country, but he should understand before he comes that the man who seeks to convince others must in the first place prove that he himself is open to conviction.

If we wanted to paint a picture representing intense feeling of embarrassment and anger whitewashed with a thin coat of the most guileless innocence, we would select for our subject a young lady who had suddenly sat down on a banana peel on a crowded street.—Art Journal.

DAILY NEWS

GEO. C. JORDAN, Editor and Prop'r.

FRIDAY, ------AUGUST 22, 1879

THE colored excursionists from Mississippi, who went to look at Kansas a few days ago, have returned satisfied that while it is a lovely land it is no place for colored people or any other people without money. A number of emigrants returned with them.

MR. CASANAVE has added another chapter to the history of the great Louisiana frauds and forgeries which resulted in putting Hayes into the White House. Mr. Casanave is of the opinion that Mr. Hayes is the blank blankest fraud and hypocrite in the United States. Mr. Casanave ought to know. He made him.

NEW YORK is beginning to congratulate itself over the assurance of getting through the summer with an unusally good sanitary record. The death rate for last week was the lowest for the second week of August in ten years, the aggregate being only 503, or 207 less than the previous week. The cool weather is, of course, largely responsible, but the system of tenement house inspection and the efforts of the Board of Health have put the city in much better condition than usual in the dog days.

THE Cartersville (Ga.) Express is out with an extra edition containing a lengthy letter from Mrs. Cora H. Hill, wife of Sam. Hill, of Georgia, who killed Simmons for alleged seduction of her during his absence. She throws all the blame on Simmons and details circumstantially the whole business. If her story is true Simmons deserved punishment. We shall not undertake to decide the question as to the right of a man to kill the betrayer of his wife; every man has his own idea in regard to the moral justice of the act. But a husband's decisive action in such a case is legally wrong. Still the death penalty or imprisonment for life seems too hard a sentence in such cases. The Express makes a strong appeal to Governor Colquitt to pardon Hill.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Cleveland (O.) Herald is out with the startling announcement that he has discovered the real secret of the colored exodus. It is not race or sectional prejudice, but a Catholic trick to get the negroes out, Irish Catholics in their place, and, eventually, an independendent Catholic State. The correspondent has traveled extensively at the South and got his inkling of this conspiracy from a letter the editors of the Okolona (Miss.) States showed him from a South Carolina Catholic bishop, who assured them that "the whole Roman Catholic church from its Pope down to the most humble member are heart and soul in this work, and they will do all in their power to make it a success." The correspondent says that all Southern politicians know of this plan, and that it is the secret of their defiant utterances.

Now that the Yazoo troubles have culminated in the killing of Dixon, we may expect to see every Radical paper overflowing with sympathy for a man who but three years ago was pronounced by the same papers the worst "bull-dozer" in the South. The Chicago Tribune has been the loudest in advocacy of Dixon's course, but when it was discovered that he was the noted ex-"bull-dozer" Dixon, it was placed in such a ridiculous light by its "straddle-the-fence" position in an editorial that it had to run through a steady fire of jeers and jokes. The principal point that it undertook to make was that political liberty could not be enjoyed in Mississippi; that every paper save one, the Vicksburg Herald, indorsed the outrage. This, of course, is false, and for the edification of the Tribune, as well as corroborative of our statement, we take the following from the Atlanta Constitution of the 20th, published before the news of Dixon's death was telegraphed:

The truth is, every Democratic newspaper in the South of any standing and influence that has discussed the matter at all, has denounced the programme of these Yazoo Democrats as it deserved to be denounced. A few obscure weeklies in Mississippi applauded the Yazoo bull-dozers, but the Vicksburg Herald, followed by the best papers of the State at once begun the comparatively difficult task of convincing the Yazoo people that the Democratic sentiment of that State would by no means tolerate such an undemocratic proceeding as interference with the freedom of elections; and in this task they received the aid of leading Democratic papers in every part of the South. We say comparatively difficult task, because it frequently happens that three hundred provincials are an uncommonly hard lot to convert when once they have made up their minds; but in this instance there has been no difficulty whatever. Public sentiment has crystallized with wonderful alacrity, and it is not too much to say that those who were readiest to bulldoze the independent capdidate were the quickest to admit that the precedent they had set was not only destructive of the freedom of the ballot, but obnoxious to every principle of free government.

PLENTY OF ADVICE.

If the Democracy is not successful in 1880 it will not be for lack of advice from the Republican leaders. It having been stated that a New York Democrat had written to the effect that Mr. Tilden, if convinced that Governor Robinson cannot be elected will take the field at the head of the State ticket himself, the New York Tribune promptly steps forward and says it is probable that he could not do a better thing for his own interests. If he cannot hope to carry that State, it will save him a great deal of money and some trouble to find it out before the Presidential nominating convention meets. A campaign as candidate for Governor will test his strength in the State far better than it can be tested by running any subordinate, or any candidate unobjectionable to Tammany. It will cost him much less than a Presidential nomination. If he should succeed, it would make his nomination almost inevitable, and materially increase his chances of an election. By that policy he would be enabled to fight his main battle in his own State, on familiar ground, and with known and chosen aids and agents; and if he cannot win there and this year, there is not one chance in a hundred that he could win next year, as Presidential candidate.

Further that he was told that Democrats elsewhere had no part or would side with either faction in the quarrels in New York, but that he could not be a candidate for the Presidency unless he could harmonize his party in his own State; that Democrats elsewhere demand evidence that he can carry it at all, and demand that, if he can, he shall do so this year to avert the harm to the whole party which a defeat in New York would involve. To carry the State, and to show that he can harmonize his party there—that is the problem set him. Victory with Governor Robinson, if attained at all, must be attained in a way which would show that the party was not harmonized, upon conditions which would not exist in a National election, and by the aid of votes which presumably would not be casefor a Democratic Presidential ticket Victory with any other candidate, if that were possible, must have the appearance of yielding to the threat of Tammany. It would be a virtual confession that Tammany is too strong to be resisted with success. Hence it would lead Democrats elsewhere to ask with graver anxiety what Mr. Kelly means to do about the candidacy of Mr. Tilden himself, and would probably put it in the power of Tammany to extinguish his hopes by another flat declaration that it would not support him if nominated.

The Tribune then goes on to say:

If Mr. Tilden could wheedle Mr. Kelly, by some pretended truce or compromise, that would still have the air of a confession of weakness. But he probably cannot, and probably does not think that he can. He has measured his ground, undoubtedly, before making the assault upon the police board, and it must be presumed that he discarded the hope of an amicable settlement, or he would not have begun the fight. In that case, three courses are open. He can nominate Governor Robinson and stand or fall with him; but that would leave the fight open in his own State, and would prove nothing as to his ability to carry the State next year. He can submit to Mr. Kelly's threat, and nominate some other man; but that would be a confession of weakness, and would go far to put him at the mercy of Mr. Kelly next year. The only other course is to nominate himself, and make the best fight he can for the State. Mr. Tilden is not noted for making the worst move possible in his own interests.

The moral of the tale, for Republicans, is that they had better be prepared for the very strongest fight that Mr. Tilden can make. They ought not to count in the slightest degree upon Democratic discords. Their business is to take such a position that Mr. Tilden cannot defeat them in any way.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Grant campaign club of Louisiana organized in 1868 is going to address the country.

Our Ohio correspondent furnishes us with the most reliable and satisfactory data we have yet had of the campaign in the Buckeye State. The Democracy seem to have their armor on.—Washington Post.

Mr. Hendricks' advice to Mr. Tilden is that he should assist in making Judge Church the Democratic gubernatorial candidate in New York this fall. Mr. Hendricks' past intimate relations with Mr. Tilden entitle him to a most respectful consideration.—Washington Post.

Tilden's wise moderation has half disarmed his foes, and has made the eventual surrender of Tammany much more easy than would have been possible it his men had retorted upon Tammany with insults and defiance.—New York Times.

Leading men throughout the Southern States should lose no time, for there is none to lose, in combining plainly and earnestly to denounce occurrences like those recently reported from the Yazoo county, and to commend such financial views and such political relations between the South and the conservative opinion of the North as those Southern leaders well know was honestly represented in Congress during the extra session by men like Senator Bayard.—New York World.

One unknown quantity in the next Democratic national convention is the delegation from Illinois. The Chicago Tribune has it that Congressman Morrison is gathering his friends together for Bayard, in the expectation of finally turning the State over to Hendricks. If Colonel Morrison, who was once a Tilden man and is not now, were to go in for Bayard, it would be much the keenest act of his life.—Springfield Republican.

No Justification.

Madison (Miss.) Homestead.

No apprehension, no alarm, could justify such an outrage on law, on the liberty of the citizen, and the freedom of elections. With the executive, judiciary and legislative departments of the State government in the hands of the Democracy there can be no excuse for lawlessness, and certainly not for lawlessness by the Democratic party, against those rights that the party boasts of protecting sacred and inviolate.

Considerably South.

Atlanta Constitution,

Alluding to the fact that a Republican ticket composed of Grant and Settle, the New Haven Register placidly and plausibly remarks: "Settle's strength is probably in "the South." It certainly must be—considerably south of the Southern States.

The Responsible Author.

Atlanta Constitution.

In connection with this Barbara Freitchie business, we propose to prove, at the proper time, if the weather continues favorable, that Eli Perkins, and not the venerable Whittier, is the responsible author of the ballad of that name.

May Find it a Good Thing.

Philadelphia Times.

By the end of this week there will be only two Cabinet officers remaining in Washington. If Mr. Returning Board Casanave is going to stay around however, the whole administration may find it a good thing to move out.

A New Mission.

Washington Post.

If the United States was called upon to open up diplomatic relations with Tartarus, Mr. Casanave would probably be the unanimous choice of Mr. Hayes and his Cabinet for the mission.

Radical Statistics.

From the Atlanta Constitution.

The Republican party is only twenty-five years old, but during that time it has stolen enough to last it seven hundred and fifty years.

More in It.

Philadelphia Times.

The dilatory Mr. Casanave is just beginning to see that there is more in a Returning Board than he at first thought there was.

J. D. and the Organs.

Philadelphia Times.

Finding that the Cincinnati Commercial and the Baltimore American could not single-handed elect Jefferson Davis to the Senate from Mississippi, the New York Tribune and the Philadelphia Press have got into the breach. With four such powerful newspapers as these running him for the high position—aided by an occasional brilliant dash of the North American and the Okolona States—there ought to be no kind of doubt about getting Mr. Davis back into the Senate, in spite of the fact that he is opposed to it himself, that he says he'll not serve, and regardless of the trifling matter that he is ineligible anyway.

The Purity of the Ballot.

Boston Herald.

Even in Massachusetts, generally acknowledged to be the most highly civilized and best governed State in the Union, there are offenses against the rights of man. While the developments of the Wallace committee in regard to the intimidation of voters in this State are ridiculous, when compared with offenses elsewhere, it will be seen there are cases even here which present an unpleasant appearance before a tribunal. No doubt the offenses charged grew out of zeal for good government, but the same plea might be made for the armed "bulldozer" of Mississippi. Brains, enterprise and wealth are influential enough in any community without a resort to threats, either of sudden death or discharge from employment. The idea that there was any concerted plan to influence voters by improper methods is absurd, but here and there a zealous partisan undoubtedly overstepped the bounds of propriety. As a rule even in those places where the offense was charged, the voters seem to have stood up for their rights. The evidence taken strengthens the argument in favor of supervision by members of both parties, while we believe that the employment of deputy marshals for service at elections is almost sure to be abused. It provides a convenient system of bribery, by which the votes of bummers may be bought with public money for the benefit of a particular party. If the Democrats were in power in the national administration, the Republicans would promptly see the evils of the system which they have defended while it worked in their favor. But we believe that every ballot box should be supervised by brave and honest representatives of all the political parties presenting tickets, and that the humblest voter should be protected from the smallest degree of intimidation on the part of any other man. Even an attempt to scrutinize another man's ticket should be held an offense to be punished; or, better, should be made impossible by proper precautions.

The Situation in Maine.

Washington Star.

On the 8th day of September the people of the State of Maine will proceed to the election of a governor, to hold office during the coming year. There are three principal candidates in the field, supported each by a considerable political party, and great importance attaches to the contest between them. For the result this year will in all probability conclusively indicate the attitude to be assumed by the Pine Tree Commonwealth in the Presidential struggle of 1880.

During the period included in the twenty-four years immediately preceding 1878, Maine was a consistent Republican State. Pierce carried it in 1852 by a majority of 9,000 over Scott, but the Democratic candidate for governor only secured a plurality at the next election, and the election devolved upon the legislature. The succeeding year, 1854, the State went Republican by a considerable plurality on the gubernatorial vote, and a large majority in the legislature, and since then has stood solidly in the Radical column. The present Governor, Garcelon, is the only Democratic executive the State has had during the period included between 1853 and 1878.

The result of the election in the State last fall was to break up the Radical ascendency. That dominant party which had carried the State by a majority of 12,000 the year before, that woke up the day after that election to find themselves in a minority on the whole vote, of 12,757. The change was very sudden. The main object in the present campaign is to demonstrate whether or not it is permanent.

If the result this fall depended entirely upon the work accomplished during the canvass, the Republicans would win, for their exertions are tremendous. Every prominent fraction in the not over harmonious Radical party of the country at large is represented in some way in the struggle. Blaine, to make any sort of a figure in the Presidential fight at all, must come into the convention with his State at his back, a fact which he appreciates. Hamlin stands for Grant, and has a common interest with Blaine in carrying the State against the opposition first, leaving the quarrel inside the party to be fought out afterward, while the fact that the money question is the great issue in the canvass, and the further one that the de facto Secretary of the Treasury himself has already taken a part in the fight to the extent of delivering himself of five stilted speeches, tempers the affair with some little of Shermanic interest.

In spite, however, of all this unity of purpose among the Radical managers in the State and their advisers on the outside in pursuit of the important object in view, the party's prospects for carrying Maine this fall are far from brilliant. In fact, at the present writing, it seems altogether probable that the combined opposition of the Democrats and the Greenbackers will be altogether too much for the Radical organization. Connor, the Republican gubernatorial candidate, last year polled 56,519 votes to 41,404 for Smith, the Greenbacker, and 27,872 for Governor Garcelon, the Democratic nominee. This fall it is not expected that the Democratic vote will reach that of last, for the intention of the managers is to the contrary. Smith's vote will, therefore, increase in direct proportion, and the struggle will be between himself and Davis, the Radical nominee. While it is impossible to predict in advance who will receive the largest vote, it is almost certain that neither Smith nor Davis will get an independent majority. The election will then be thrown, as it was last year, into the legislature, and there the Democrats propose to be largely represented.

An Independent Paper.

Oglethorpe Echo.

A prominent gentleman, in this country, accuses the Echo of drifting into independence. He is eminently correct. It is an independent sheet, in the broadest acception of the term. It has the courage to expose and cry down corruption in high and low places. It has the independence to denounce an officer, even of its own choosing, when he proves himself unworthy of public trust.

What Chandler Writes.

New York Star.

Mr. William E. Chandler, regulator of returning boards, writes from Nevada that "the Republicans are likely to lose California in the coming election, because the party will not commit itself to a vigorous application of the provisions of the new constitution to the correction of railroad abuses in that State."

Repairing Promptly and Carefully Done.

Talbott's Patent Spark Arrester.

THE INVENTION OF THE AGE.

Talbott's new Patent Spark Arrester is really the only perfect and reliable one, and is superseding all others in use. The great efficiency of this Arrester is attracting universal attention, and is being endorsed by the best mechanical engineers and insurance companies. Its prominent features are:

It does not destroy the draft.

It does not interfere with cleaning the tubes.

It will not choke up, and requires no cleaning.

It requires no direct dampers to be opened when raising steam (dampers being objectionable, as they may be left open and allow sparks to escape.)

It requires no water to extinguish sparks, which, by condensation, destroys the draft. Besides, when water is used, if neglected, the efficiency is destroyed by evaporation of the water, and the boiler is kept in a filthy condition.

It is simple and durable, and can be relied upon.

It can be attached to any boiler.

No planter should be without one of them. Insurance companies will insure gins and barns where the Talbott Engines and Spark Arresters are used at same rate as charged for water or horse-power.

Lithia Water.

THE BUFFALO LITHIA SPRINGS,

MECKLENBURG COUNTY, VIRGINIA.

THE GREAT TONIC AND ALTERATIVE WATERS OF THE AMERICAN CONTINENT.

BUFFALO LITHIA SPRING NO. 3.

The most Valuable and Powerful Tonic Waters of Virginia, and, with one exception, the most Valuable Tonic Water of the United States..

☞ ANALYSIS of this Spring, made by Prof. Wm. P. Tonry, of the Maryland Institute, Baltimore, March 17, 1877: Results expressed in grains per imperial gallon, shows it to contain 3,774 grains of the Carbonate of Iron, which is recognized by all medical men as incomparably the most potent and valuable form in which iron can be used as a Tonic. A comparison of this analysis with that of other chalybeate waters of the American Continent shows that the Buffalo Lithia Spring No. 3 contains a larger percentage of CARBONATE OF IRON than any other Mineral Water in Virginia, and, with one exception, a larger percentage than any other Mineral Water in the United States. Between this water and chalybeate waters generally there is one important difference. Chalybeate waters, as a general rule, are ASTRINGENT. The water of Spring No. 3 is APERIENT—rendered so by the Carbonate of Potash.

With this powerful BLOOD TONIC, in conjunction with the famous Buffalo Lithia Springs No. 2 (which contains a larger percentage of the Bi-carbonate of Lithia than any known Mineral Water,) one of the most powerful alterative waters of the world, and to which is attributed by many eminent medical men a peculiar power as "a Nerve Tonic," it would seem to be a self-evident proposition that these Springs offer inducements to those in search of health, found nowhere else upon the American Continent.

GOSSIP FOR THE LADIES.

"My Lover!"

"My lover! Oh, fair word for maid to hear!
My lover, who was yesterday my friend!
Oh, strange we did not know before how near
Our stream of life smoothed to its fated end!
Shine, Star of Eve, as Love's self, bright and clear;
Shine, little star, and bring my lover here.

"He comes! I hear the echo of his feet.
He comes! I fear to stay, I cannot go.
Oh, Love! that thou art shame-fast, bitter-sweet,
Mingled with pain and conversant with wo!
Shine, Star of Eve, more bright as night draws near;
Shine, little star, and bring my lover here!"

Repentance is like a married woman rushing for an excursion train. It usually arrives too late.

"Yes," he cried passionately, "I love you so true, so true—" "Never mind, darling," said she, artlessly, "I'll have my trousseau ordered at once."

Dresses buttoned behind are not nearly as fashionable as they have been, not even for girls.

The corsage en cœur, or in the V shape is taking precedence of the square or Pompadour corsage.

London Truth says that at the recent French fancy fair at the Albert hall a lady was dispensing tea. A solemn gentleman approached and asked the price of a cup. "One shilling," replied the lady, and he put down a shilling. Before handing him the cup, the lady raised it to her lips, and observed that the price was now a sovereign. The solemn gentleman gravely replaced his shilling with a sovereign, and said: "Be good enough to give me a clean cup." That was rough on the lady.

Flowers are not so lavishly used in the decoration of weddiug dresses as formerly. Small bouquets are set at intervals down the front, or clusters are fastened in the paniers.

A pretty girl, posted in aquatics, wanted to know if a smack on the lips was a beautrace. Her young man received the question with rowers of laughter.—Steubensille Herald.

A young lady advertised for a maid. One applied, and in response to the inquiry whether she was quick, she replied: "O, so quick that I will engage to dress you every day in half an hour." "In half an hour!" reiterated the young lady; "and what shall I do the rest of the day?"—Portland Press.

Many ladies have never left off wearing a small crinoline tournure, even during the reign of Princesse dresses, and it is this bustle that is now generally adopted for short dresses.

Seven young ladies received the degree of A. B. at Northampton recently. "But," asks the Lowell Courier, "How can a young woman be a bachelor?" Pshaw! A. B. don't mean that in a lady's diploma. It means "after bachelors," and signifies that the young lady that received the degree is qualified for matrimony.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Wives of great men oft remind us,
We should pick our wives with care;
So we may not leave behind us
Half our natural crop of hair. Next.

Take her up tenderly,
Lift her with care,
She'll come to pieces if
Raised by the hair.

No Good Preaching.

No man can do a good job of work, preach a good sermon, try a law suit well, doctor a patient, or write a good article when he feels miserable and dull, with sluggish brain and unsteady nerves, and none should make the attempt in such a condition when it can be so easily and cheaply removed by a little Hop Bitters. See other column.

Cuticura

REMEDIES

Infallibly Cure all Skin and Scalp Diseases, Scaly Eruptions, Itchings, and Irritations

The testimonials of permanent cures of Skin and Scalp Diseases which have been the torture of a lifetime by the Cuticura Remedies, are more wonderful than any methods or remedies known to the medical profession.

Cuticura Resolvent, a powerful Blood Purifier, is the only purifying agent which finds its way into the circulating fluid and thence through the oil and sweat glands to the surface of the skin, thus destroying the poisonous elements with which these vessels have been daily charged.

Cuticura, The Great Skin Cure, applied externally, arrests all unnatural or morbid growth which cover the surface of the diseased glands and tubes with Scaly, Itching, and Irritating Humors, speedily it removes them, leaving the pores open, healthy, and free from diseased particles of matter.

Thus internally and externally do these great remedies act in conjunction, performing cures that have astonished the most noted physicians of the day.

Salt Rheum for 30 Years

On the Head, Face, and Greater Parts of the Body, Cured.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen, I have been a great sufferer with Salt Rheum for 30 years, commencing in my head and face and extending over the greater part of my body. I have taken gallons of medicines for the blood of different kinds and tried good physicians, all of which did me no good, and I came to the conclusion that I could not be cured. But a friend called my attention to an article in the Union on skin diseases, and I got a box of Cuticura. The first application was a great relief and the third took the scales all off, and I felt like a new man. I have used three 50-cent boxes and my skin is smooth and I consider myself entirely cured. Hoping that this may be seen by some one afflicted as I have been (if there is any) is my earnest wish. And I cheerfully recommend it to all persons afflicted with like diseases. Yours truly,
B. WILSON LORD.

Agawam, Mass., Sept. 9, 1878.

The Cuticura Soap should be used for cleansing all diseased surfaces, as most soaps are injurious to the skin.

LEPROSY.

A Modern Miracle. Astonishing Results from the use of Cuticura.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen.—We have a case of Leprosy in our poorhouse which is being cured by your Cuticura remedies The county had employed all of our doctors and had sent to New York for advice, but to no avail.

The patient commenced using the Cuticura and immediately began getting better. He had been confined to his bed for two and one half years. Had not had his clothes on during this time. Last week he dressed for the first time.

When he walked, there would at least one quart of scales come off of him.

This happened every day.

We think it is a wonderful cure.

We do not think he is cured, but he is in a fair way to be cured to say the least.

Yours truly,
DUNNING BROTHERS,
Druggists and Bookellers.

Allegan, Mich., Feb. 11, 1879.

Note.—Messrs. Dunning Brothers are thoroughly reliable gentlemen, and were unknown to us prior to the receipt of this letter. We firmly believe this Cuticura will permanently cure this very severe case of Leprosy, as it has done many others.

Prepared by Weeks & Potter, Chemists and Druggists, 360 Washington Street, Boston, Mass., and for sale by all Druggists and Dealers. Price of Cuticura, small boxes, 50 cents; large boxes containing two and one half times the quantity of small, $1. Resolvent, $1 per bottle. Cuticura Soap, 25 cents per cake; by mail, 30 cents; 3 cakes, 5 cents.

BEAUFORT NEEDS HELP.

Turn in, ye Tar Heels! and Help a Suffering Sister.

The following telegram was received from Beaufort yesterday:

BEAUFORT, N. C., August 21, 1879.

To Governor T. J. Jarvis:

Our people are in great distress and in dangerous of pestilence from the great amount of rubbish in front of the town. Can't you let us have two or three hundred dollars from the State fund. JAMES H. POOL.

On reception of the above the following was issued by acting Mayor R. H. Battle.

A meeting of such as are disposed to aid the sufferers in our neighboring town, so afflicted by the storms, will please be to-night at Metropolitan Hall, at 8 o'clock. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

In accordance with the foregoing, a meeting of the citizens was held at Metropolitan Hall last night, for the aid of the Beaufort sufferers. Mr. Battle explained the meeting. Mr. M. Grausman elected chairman, and Mr. F. A. Olds secretary.

A committee, consisting of Messrs. F. C. Christopher, J. J. Litchford, M. Grausman and A. W. Fraps.

The committee proceeded at once to raise funds by calling upon the gentlemen in the hall, and a considerable amount was raised.

Colonel T. M. Argo made a short, but eloquent speech in which he paid a handsome tribute to the memory of Mr. W. Henry Congleton and Mr. J. D. Hughes, who lost their lives heroically rescuing their fellow creatures.

Colonel Argo called upon the citizens to give money for the purpose of erecting a monument on the spot where those heroic men lost their lives. A committee was appointed to raise funds for that purpose consisting of Colonel T. M. Argo, N. B. Broughton, Major B. C. Manly and Mr. Bledsoe.

The meeting thereupon adjourned sine die.

Justice's Court.

Justice Barbee disposed of the following cases yesterday: State and Emiline Watson vs. Martha Shaw—Peace warrant. The defendant was discharged and Emiline Powel was compelled to pay the costs.

State vs. Caswell Simmons. Warrant for abandonment. Defendant guilty. Judgment suspended on payment of cost.

THE PRESS CONVENTION.

The Closing Scenes at Goldsboro—The Arrival at Raleigh.

The winding up scenes of the Press Convention were as pleasant as those of the earlier hours of the meeting. After the excellent address of Colonel Cameron, Wednesday night, the Convention again went into the discussion of certain business matters, and also elected the following executive committee: S. A. Ashe, W. J. Yeates, T K. Bruner, J. A. Bonitz and J. S. Tomlinson. The meeting was then declared adjourned sine die.

The brethren lay down to pleasant dreams in the comfortable sleeping apartments of the Gregory House, and also breakfasted with Mr. Freeman, the generous proprietor, who said in his urbane manner, "Gentlemen, this is my treat, the people of Goldsboro shall not be outdone in hospitality to the brethren of the Press." That did more for Mr. Freeman, in the brethren's estimation, than if he had charged them for their entertainment. There isn't a bit of doubt about that.

The last and probably the most "tasteful" part of the whole affair was yet to come. J. A. Bonitz, who ought to be called the "Colonel" of the State Press, had in store for his brethren a farewell gathering in his elegant draws ing rooms. The gentlemen grew sympathetic under the grateful influenced of sparkling Catawba and brown sherry so lavishly set out by the genial host. Wit glinted about the room as brothers Deake, Woodhouse, Stone, Battle, Furman and Creecy shiverelances in their sallies at each other. Pun upon a pun is the way it run around. Then fruit cake was passed around, and, editorial fashion, it was paragraphed—pruned, as it were. The party certainly had too much fruit cake on board, when the signal for the departure of the train was sounded, and the happy party disbanded, each shaking the hand of the whole-souled Bonitz, and with a heart "too full for utterance" silently betook themselves to the departing train.

There never was a party of sixty men went into any place expecting so little that came away with so much. Goldsboro will never pass out of the pleasant recollections of a North Carolina editor.

The gang "layed to" at Raleigh and paid respects to His Excellency the Governor, spending a while with him most felicitously. From the Executive office they repaired to the National Hotel, where they had a royal dinner, such as the Streets know how to get up, after which they took their departure for Glen Alpine. Oh, these editors they feast on the fat of the land when they are away—but home, corn bread and dunning letters is the diet.

Littleton Property for Sale.

W. A. Johnston states that in consequence of the accumulation of business he is compelled to dispose of part of his business, and consequently he advertises his fruit farm for sale. His graphic statement is unique, and therefore the NEWS gives it verbatim:

"The success of the fruit growers and shippers in this section has been a flattering one, and prejudice of the old fogies against them is fast dying out. These fruit growers were poor, and now they keep a bank account; their sons were the hewers of wood and drawers water, and now they drive spanking teams and their daughters wear the latest pin back skirts and keep their pianos which are arguments patent even to old fogies." His postoffice address is Littleton, N. C.

Superior Court.

Court met at 10 o'clock yesterday. Judge Avera presiding. The following cases were disposed of:

Huson V. Parson vs. Patrick Murray. Judgment for plaintiff.

Anson V. Parson vs. P. Murray et als. Judgment for plaintiff.

Seth Penny vs. Richmond and Danville railroad company. Judgment for plaintiff.

John W. Harrison vs. John E. Emery et al. Pending the argument of counsel, court adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The Death Rate of

Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming, the average of life being lessened every year, without any reasonable cause, death resulting generally from the most insignificant organ. At this season of the year especially, a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it and often find too late that a fever or lung trouble has already set in. Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while had Boschee's German Syrup been taken, a cure would have resulted, and a large bill from a doctor been avoided. For all diseases of the throat and lungs, Boschee's German Syrup has proved itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine. Every Druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect. Over 950,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known. d&wtf.

BOVINE, MISSISSIPPI, April 22, 1879.—The following correspondence will explain itself: A. WADDILL, ESQ., LYNCHBURG, VA.—Dear Sir: Observing a certificate from you in reference to the "Iron and Alum Mass," of the Seven Springs, in Washington county, Va., in relation to its efficacy for Liver Diseases, would you have the kindness to inform me whether you used the "Mass" or the "Water;" also, a description of the symptoms and such other information as you may deem pertinent. I am a long-time sufferer with Liver Complaint, and naturally feel very anxious on the subject of a remedy that will afford me even temporary relief. Your early reply will greatly oblige, very respectfully,
WILLIAM BARR.

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 12, 1879.—WM. BARR, Esq., Bovine, Mississippi—Dear Sir: Your inquiry in regard to the "Liver case" which was effectually cured in my family from using the "Seven Springs Mass," is before me. The case referred to in my certificate was that of my wife's sister, who is now in her 80th year, and has been a member of my family for the last 27 years. She had been afflicted with Liver Disease for 30 years, sometimes almost dying with pains in the back, breast, and heaviness of the chest, heart-burns (intensely), sick stomach, vomiting, &c. I procured a few bottles of the "Mass" for her, and very soon after she began the use of it, her health commenced to get better, and she continued steadily to improve, and at this writing, so old, seemingly in as good health as a person who had never been afflicted with these diseases. She attributes her cure entirely to the efficacy of the "Seven Springs Mass." I regard it one of the greatest family medicines we have access to, not only for such diseases as above indicated, but for various other complaints for which it is recommended. Hoping these answers satisfactory, I am, very truly, A. WADDILL, Proprietor Lynchburg News.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had so prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R.
